Industry Limitations

Challenges Before the Metaverse

- Art and fashion events and exhibits were typically held in physical locations, making it difficult for people who lived far away or who were unable to attend in-person to participate or engage with the industry.
- High costs associated with production and distribution: Artists and designers often faced high costs when producing and distributing their work
- Difficult to expand reach beyond artist's local or regional area. This could limit their opportunities for growth and recognition.
- Without the ability to easily connect with other artists, designers, or industry professionals, opportunities for collaboration and cross-promotion were limited.

Fact

Metaverse will allow brands to expand their markets by 10% by the end of the decade – worth more than $50 billion in additional revenue.

- Virtual fashion shows and exhibitions allow designers to showcase their work to a global audience, while virtual art exhibits provide a platform for artists to share their work with a wider audience.
